Before Venomous Jeff Nobles left this world to be with God he had been working on a few painting at the shop after he got out of the hospital. One painting was the "HA Rose" which like a few others went unfished. Instead of letting the painting go to waist had someone finish it us using some of the items from his other paintings. Everything is Jeff, we just filled in the gaps with his previous work that ironically somehow fit.

Not only was Jeff's artwork totally badass biker art, but it had actually predicted the future before events would take place. Not known to many, his paintings came true! For more information, CLICK HERE
